Hon. A. O. Aalborg
Sends Report On Proposed School Div.

SUMMARY OF MEETING JUNE 5 CROWS NEST PASS

1.—Mr. Welter, Dr. Mowat, Mr. McKay and Dr. Reeves attended a meeting of all school boards of the Crows Nest Pass area. The meeting was requested by the secretary of the Blairmore School District who acted on behalf of the other boards. In general its purpose was to answer questions regarding the operation of a school division.

2.—It is the opinion of the representatives of the Department that the Coleman schools are of good construction and pretty well meet the needs of this district. There is no doubt that the other school districts are in need of improved school facilities.

3.—No school district except Coleman has a debenture debt—$25,000.00.

4.—The requisition rate in Coleman is over 26 mills, but it would be at least two mills higher if they were not using part of their surplus to cover this year's requisition.

5.—Blairmore on the other hand has a requisition rate of 20 mills. Frank has a requisition rate of 18.7 mills. Bellevue-Hillcrest has a requisition rate of 26.7 mills.

6.—If the districts were combined under present circumstances the requisition rate would be 23.7 mills.

OBSERVATIONS FROM THE MEETING—

1.—The boards, with the exception of Coleman, seemed to be quite favorable to the formation of a division. Coleman felt that its building needs had been met and that a division would merely require them to assist in improving the schools of the other districts. This opinion remained despite the fact that Coleman has a relatively low ability to pay and in some respects it seemed that after an amalgamation the wealthier districts of Frank and Blairmore would be contributing to the poorer districts of Coleman and Bellevue-Hillcrest.

2.—Everyone seemed to agree that a central high school would be a logical development if a division were formed.

3.—Concern was expressed about the east boundary of such a division. Those present indicated that they would want the Burnham Lumber Camp and some land to the north included. Not only does this give more assessment, but it is also the site of a proposed new industry. On this point the members representing the Department were unable to express an opinion, as boundaries are under the jurisdiction of the Minister.

4.—Some discussion was also had on the possibility of a division without Coleman.

5.—No one seemed to be absolutely sure on the steps that should be taken to finally settle the question of whether there should be a division or not. Mr. Kovach, M.L.A. agreed to discuss this matter with the Minister of Education and advise each board of the recommended procedure.

OBSERVATIONS BY THE COMMITTEE MEMBERS

1.—Probably each board should advise the Minister of Education of its reaction to this idea of a division in the Crows Nest Pass area, and ask that a decision be made at that level.

2.—Some thought should be given to the formation of a division which would include all of I.D. 16 with the exception of the Coleman district. This would include about 40 teachers and there would be in the neighborhood of 150 high school pupils, so that one central high school would still be feasible. It is these districts that are faced with building needs and they are also favorable to amalgamation. Coleman on the other hand could be brought in later by inclusion if so desired.

In Canada the poisoning of lakes and re-stocking has become a proven tool for restoring game fishing in lakes where coarse fish have taken over from such species as trout.

To Attend National
C.G.I.T. Camp

Gail Murdoch

Gail Murdoch is one of the lucky eight girls from Alberta to attend the National Canadian Girls in Training Camp this year.

Five girls were chosen by the Alberta Girls' Work Board and the other three delegates are denominational, representing the Baptist, United and Presbyterian churches. Gail is the United church delegate. The Coleman United Church group contributed $52.00 towards her expenses.

This will be the second national C.G.I.T. camp. The first one was held in 1952. The 1956 camp will be held from July 9 - 20 at Camp Kwasind, near untsville, Ont. in the beautiful Muskoka Lake district.

To the camp will come seventy girls representing the ten Canadian provinces. All camp leaders will be qualified in a particular field and they, like the campers will come from all across Canada.

The girls will take part in the usual activities that are part of camp life... hikes, recreation, and campfires. There will also be daily Bible study sessions and the girls will have the opportunity of discussing program and policy of the C.G.I.T. The girls will have the privilege of exchanging ideas and suggestions.

The girls will talk about the place of C.G.I.T. in today's world, and they will have some outside viewpoints to give a cosmopolitan slant to their discussions. As well as campers from all across Canada there will be "international" campers from India, Formosa, Trinidad and Bolivia.

C.G.I.T. is an interdenominational organization with groups in the Baptist, Presbyterian, United Church and Churches of Christ "Disciples". If there is one definite theme for this camp it is the hope of giving the girls a feeling of national unity and of giving valuable training to future C.G.I.T. leaders.

After camp the girls will travel to Toronto. Then they will travel down and visit Niagara Falls and Hamilton. A sightseeing tour of Toronto is also planned. All the Alberta girls will attend camp council at Kasota Beach, Sylvan Lake after returning home.

Board of Trade Hold
Supper Meeting

The regular supper meeting of the Coleman Board of Trade was held on Thursday, June 21.

Business on the agenda was the report from the delegates who met and welcomed the Kallispel Chamber of Commerce cavalcade who passed through on Thursday.

The brief submitted by the Coleman Board of Trade to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce meeting held recently at Red Deer was not considered because of certain wording but this brief is to be presented again next year in a revised manner. Mr. D. B. Young and Mayor Abousafy compiled the brief on a new coal policy.

Mr. Jack Colwell of the CNP Tourist Association gave a comprehensive report on what the Association is doing and request that as many Board of Trade members attend the supper meeting being held in Frank on Friday, June 6.

Mr. William Holyk, board president, reported on the efforts to get Matthew Halton to speak before the board. Member Mr. Halton regretted his not being able to attend at this time.

Mr. E. Fabro reported on the board's efforts to have the new route of the Kananaskis Highway approach to Coleman. He stated that it had been started and for no apparent reason stopped. All of his efforts to find out why had failed. The board decided to press this matter and added Mr. A. Montabetti to the committee.

Permission to sell peanuts at the Rodeo field was requested by Mr. J. Salus for the Coleman Juvenile Athletic Committee. The proceeds from the Peanut Week would go to buy equipment for the Little and Pony League teams.

Permission was granted. The Department of Public Works have loaned benches to the park committee for use this summer at the tourist shelter. Mr. Holyk reported.

The board went on record to recess for 2 months this summer.

Rodeo matters were outlined by Mr. William Fraser, Rodeo president and showed all matter proceeded to plan.

Bear Visits Bagley Ranch

If one were taking a drive or a walk over the Kananaskis Highway or some remote area we are always on the alert or lookout for some wild game or expectations of probably meeting a bear but to have a brown bear appear at your kitchen door is quite a different situation. This was the recent experience of Mrs. Earl Bagley at her ranch home west of town. She was alarmed by the loud barking of her two dogs, thinking she had a visitor she ran to the door and beheld a huge bear endeavoring to smooch through the back yard. One small dog was trying his best to protect a large Collie who was very much handicapped by being chained to a stake. Mrs. Bagley eyeing the situation saw the captive dog's doom was near, she frantically tried to frighten or distract Mr. Bruin's attention by rattling some tin cans, seeing this was useless she re-entered the house and loaded her husband's rifle, accidentally in her haste the gun discharged, the bullet lodging in the back porch floor, she reloaded the weapon and took potluck shot at the intruder and as quoted much to her surprise the bear fell and lay in a lifeless heap. Mrs. Bagley is indeed to be congratulated on this feat, showing that there are still some ladies in our midst who hold the spirit of the pioneer women who helped to build the west.

Bear Visits Home of Mr. & Mrs. Ludwig Skrzyzala

Recently a bear visited the home of Mrs. Ludwig Skrzyzala in East Coleman entering a chicken coop on the premises and destroying 100 chickens and then took his departure. The next morning Mr. Skrzyzala discovered the destruction and noticing the large tracks he and his neighbor soon identified them as bear tracks, and they laid traps and waited the results. At 1:30 a.m. Mr. Bruin made his second appearance walking into one of the traps but he managed to break the chain and was escaping, trailing the trap Mr. Skrzyzala and his neighbors armed with guns and flashlights trailed the bear to the Morrison property and here Mr. Skrzyzala fired the shot that brought him to his doom. Teddy Michalsky took the remains and will have the pelt made into a rug.

Coleman Business Places Having Paint-Up Week

The town of Coleman is taking on a new look this week. Business places from one end of town to the other are receiving new coats of paint. A bright and colorful appearance will certainly add to the rodeo parade.

Last Saturday morning five different crews were busy with paint brushes and activities expected to carry on all week as more buildings are in line for decorating.

Former Resident Receives Scholarship

Word received by Mr. and Mrs. M. Korman states that their nephew, John Korman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Korman of Los Angeles, California, has received a scholarship from the Manual Arts High School in Los Angeles.

This scholarship was one of the first to be awarded on a statewide basis at the inauguration of the 1955 legislature.

Johnny and his parents were residents of Coleman several years ago and his many friends extend their heartiest congratulations to him on his achievements.

Volunteer Fire Brigade
To Hold Hose
Coupling Contest

The annual hose coupling contest will be held in Coleman on Monday, July 2nd and it is hoped that it will be a success.

Teams have been invited from Calgary in the north and as far west as Kimberley, B.C. So far invitations have been accepted from Coaldale and Pincher Creek. Something new has been added this year in that women's teams have been invited and it is hoped that 4 or 5 teams will be entered.

A unique feat will be tried this year by the brigades in that a football game will be played with the hoses. As the fire chief says if we are going to be set we must as well have some fun doing it.

A mock fire will be staged in the school grounds in which the firemen will set fire to a would be hot dog stand and then try to rescue the lowly hot dog before it is fried to a frazzle.

In the competition the teams will have two runs with the teams with the shortest time winning the events.

In view of Calgary holding their hose-coupling contest on July 7, Rodeo Day, the local Brigade will not compete in their events, however they will attend the Kimberley contest to be held on June 30th. The Kimberley team will then compete here on July 2.

Coleman residents are asked to come out and see these competitions and join in the fun on Monday, July 2.

Longest Parade Ever For Coleman

The 1956 Coleman Rodeo parade with 141 floats entered, horsemen, Indians, decorated cars, civic organizations and many other attractions, is estimated to be over three miles long, according to parade marshal Corson.

A number of bands have been entered from Lethbridge, Calgary, Cowley-Lundbreck, Coleman and Blairmore. Word was recently received that the Army, Navy and Air Force band of Lethbridge, the Pincher Creek band and the Chinook band from Montana will also participate. The Calgary band entered is the Elks drum and bugle band who will bring some of the Elks Patrol team.

Application has been made for from 6-8 RCMP officers to lead the parade, but no definite arrangements have been made.

By rodeo day all business establishments will be sporting fresh colors, from the Elks hall, on the south side, for three blocks with the exception of the post office.

The parade winners are divided into three classes this year—floats, cars and displays, with six prizes in each class instead of three. All winners will follow the bands to the rodeo grounds where final judgment will take place before the crowd.

A special attraction at the rodeo will be a free trailer and car show. There will be four trailers, a small holiday job of 6 up to 15 to 40 cabin cruisers. The car show will feature 10 late model cars, with two special added attractions, the Corvette, one of the fastest cars on the road, and small-est car, the Messerschmidt.

Iron Ore Prospects In Pass Area Reported Good

Well informed sources stated to the Journal that the iron ore deposits in the Crows Nest Pass area are very good and that the erection of a smelter will be started in the near future. We were unable at press time to contact any officials of the West Canadian Collieries for confirmation of these reports.

It has been stated by our informant that the Waterton deposit runs 55% pure ore and that the Burnie area runs from 75 to 90% pure.

If this report is correct this will mean a great boost for the Pass.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

MITZI

—By LILLIAN M. MITCHELL

WHAT was the flashlight, stricken eyes Jimmie grabbed Marna. "What is it?" he demanded.

Her eyes dropped to the floor for a moment before the lids squeezed themselves tightly shut as if to close out some sight too horrible to be named. She moaned and fell back into the davenport. Jimmie leaned over and shook her. "Marna?" he shouted. "What is it?"

For answer she nestled into his arms and then with a sudden stifening shrieked again.

"There—it's in the—corner," she wept, sobbing her slender body.

Jimmie looked into the corner and patted her reassuringly. "There's no one in the room except you and me. Look. There's nothing there—" he broke off. "Well, I'll be damned! You don't mean that poor little mouse do you?"

The mouse scampered across the thick Sarok.

"Yes, yes, Mouse," she whispered, affrightedly.

For answer he laughed loudly, leaning closer to her scented hair, petting her gently. "A mouse won't hurt you, Honey-girl. It's probably just hunting the hole. They make a hole to come in and out. Maybe if I open the hall door it'll run out that way—"

"No, no, no!" she yelled. "Don't leave me. I'm afraid, Jimmie."

"Well, I will be—" exclaimed Jimmie. "Here I thought all the time you were so fearless, unafraid of anything and everything, and then when a little mouse crosses the room—say, Marna."

"Mm?"

"I saw a swell ring in a window today. What do you say we look at it tomorrow?"

Jimmie's car was at the gates now. The tail lights flashed through the opening and Marna turned as the door of the room opened.

"I want my quarter, Marna."

"All right, Buddy."

"And I want my Mitzi, too. You've had her five days now—"

"I'm paying you a nickel a day to rent her," said Marna. "What are you yelling about?"

"The boy reached for Marna's half-closed hand. "You went and blackened my white mouse, you did! Look at her fur! Look at it!"

"Stop that yelling," she ordered. "I just put on a little mascara to make her. It'll wash off."

"You'll pay me a dime extra for that or I'll tell Jim, I will," he threatened.

"Oh, all right," she laughed. "You cheer! You only paid forty cents for Mitzi at the start. I'll buy her from you—"

She stroked the mouse and held it up near her eyes. "Nice little Mitzi," she murmured.

But with a wild grab, Marna's brother snatched his property. "Thirty-five cents—now!" he insisted.

And Marna, mounting the wide stairs to her room a few moments later, paused to look at her fourth finger which tomorrow would have a ring on it. Then she laughed softly.

Her scream had suddenly pierced the air. Her slim fingers covered her lips to stop the sound but nothing covered those horrible eyes. "What is it?" he demanded.

Her eyes dropped to the floor for a moment before the lids squeezed themselves tightly shut as if to close out some sight too horrible to be named. She moaned and fell back into the davenport. Jimmie leaned over and shook her. "Marna?" he shouted. "What is it?"

November 10-15 selected as 25th National 4-H Club Week

November 10 to 15, 1956, have been selected as the dates of the 25th National 4-H Club Week. This national 4-H occasion is provided each year by the Canadian Council on 4-H clubs and is scheduled to coincide with the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, Toronto.

A number of important program changes will be introduced this year. One is that the recommendation of the annual meeting to delete 4-H judging contests from the program of National 4-H Club Week was accepted at a meeting of the executive committee on May 4, and will become effective in 1956. Secondly, for the first time the program will commence on a Saturday, which will assure seeing a professional hockey game at Maple Leaf Gardens and will result in the bus trip to Niagara Falls on Sunday afternoon to observe the Falls both in daylight and under illumination.

In developing the program for this year's National 4-H Week the theme, "4-H and Our National Heritage" was chosen. The entire program will centre around this theme. For example, one of the important features will be meetings to discuss subjects affecting Canadians as citizens, with topics such as our expanding economy and population, Canada's role in world affairs, United Nations and other international programs. To accomplish this, highest ranking and best qualified men and women from government and industry will be invited to participate in the program.

National 4-H Club Week is recognized today as one of Canada's outstanding annual youth events. Bringing together as it does 4-H proficiency winners from each of the 10 provinces, National 4-H Week is providing a rewarding experience to all who attend and is helping to build vision, understanding and closer relationships among the young people of rural Canada.

The Ottawa Winter Fair Association has adopted a new regulation whereby each 4-H member must have achieved 70 percent in his year's work before becoming eligible to exhibit a calf at the fair. This recommendation was submitted by the Junior Committee of the Association, comprising county agricultural representatives and assistants from eastern Ontario.

Previously, club members exhibiting the four top ranking calves at the various local achievement days were awarded the trip to the 4-H championship show at the Ottawa Winter Fair. Commencing this year, however, standings in all phases of the 4-H program will be taken into account in selecting the trip winners. These include, care of the project, attendance at meetings, records kept, judging scores, showmanship and placing of calf at the achievement day.

This change in the 4-H section of the Ottawa Winter Fair is indicative of today's trends in club work to recognize all-around achievement. In addition, it represents progress in reaching one of the basic objectives of the 4-H club movement, providing a well balanced training in citizenship and the personal development of the young people taking part.

Service -- with a smile

(By BESSIE M. BARKER, C.N.I.B.)

Cheery words of welcome and a warm hand-clasp with a smile indicate for training in the same field. A period followed of experimental "training on the job," receiving invaluable benefit from working under the guidance of Miss Margaret W. Liggett, veteran of more than 30 years of experience in teaching the blind. This was followed by the complete training course in Home Teaching, in the National Office of the Institute in Toronto.

Busy months followed, with classes in Braille and Moon embossed type, typewriting, knitting, crocheting, and other forms of handicraft, methods of mastering household tasks in the darkness; lectures in psychology, public relations, hard-dressing, dancing; those were some of the subjects covered, the need for them based on years of research into the needs of the blind and how best to meet them.

At the end of her course Miss Saviove returned to Regina, herself to open the door which had months before been opened for her. The variety of the subjects in which she gives instruction are as varied as the people she instructs, from teaching Braille and typewriting, as well as other subjects, to a teen-aged overtaught by blindness midway in his Grade X year, to leathercraft to a 90-year-old great-grandmother; from helping "cast on" and straightening tangles in knitting to the dialling of numbers on the telephone... all included in the great task to which she has set her hand, that of "teaching people to be blind and still live full and happy lives."

But news travels... and phones ring... and there came a day when Lucille stepped off the elevator at the close of her shift to begin new studies, in Braille, with a Home Teacher from the C.N.I.B. New Hope was born, and three months later she asked if she her-

Three-storey building for his dogs

SUDBURY—"I love my Dogs," says John Clemens, 41, hugging in turn his three lanky Afghan hounds. It's one of the understatements of the year.

Behind his home workmen are building a three-storey dog house. When finished, it will have broadloom rugs, ventilating system thermostatically-controlled heating, chesterfield and bed.

"I don't want to change their environment too much," said Clemens.

Each of the three-storeys is eight feet high. Why? Because the rooms in Mr. Clemens's apartment are eight feet high. He says:

"I'm going to put all my old furniture in the dog house. They've grown up with it and helped to run some of it. And I'm getting new furniture for myself."

Mr. Clemens said he is forced into building the canine retreat by city dog-control by-laws which curb his hounds' freedom. He says they're long-limbed, wanderlusting breed, and need plenty of space.

"My dogs have always had the run of my three-storey building," Mr. Clemens said. "They're used to going up and down the stairs."

A stairway leads from one storey to the next in the giant dog house.

Mr. Clemens wants the haven completed before he leaves on a three-month tour of Europe next month. He will have a dog custodian to care for the animals during his absence.

Mr. Clemens, who said he won $500,000 in a recent Supreme Court of Ontario battle over ownership of some International Nickel Company shares, estimates his dogs' home will cost about $1,500.

Bathroom scale not accurate weight gauge

The bathroom scale could be on its way out as an accurate measure of weight or not your're overweight.

That's because it isn't how much weight you carry around, but how much of that weight is "subcutaneous fat," says an Antioch College professor, Dr. Stanley M. Garn has been studying 100 Antioch students under a U.S. Air Force grant.

He measures body fat with his own X-ray method. His studies have produced interesting side-lights, including the fact that several professional football players were rejected for World War II Army service because they were "overweight," when it was actually lean and not fatty tissue that added the pounds.

No other body tissue varies to such an extent as fatty tissue, he says.

self could be accepted as a candidate for training in the same field. A period followed of experimental "training on the job," receiving invaluable benefit from working under the guidance of Miss Margaret W. Liggett, veteran of more than 30 years of experience in teaching the blind. This was followed by the complete training course in Home Teaching, in the National Office of the Institute in Toronto.

Busy months followed, with classes in Braille and Moon embossed type, typewriting, knitting, crocheting, and other forms of handicraft, methods of mastering household tasks in the darkness; lectures in psychology, public relations, hard-dressing, dancing; those were some of the subjects covered, the need for them based on years of research into the needs of the blind and how best to meet them.

At the end of her course Miss Saviove returned to Regina, herself to open the door which had months before been opened for her. The variety of the subjects in which she gives instruction are as varied as the people she instructs, from teaching Braille and typewriting, as well as other subjects, to a teen-aged overtaught by blindness midway in his Grade X year, to leathercraft to a 90-year-old great-grandmother; from helping "cast on" and straightening tangles in knitting to the dialling of numbers on the telephone... all included in the great task to which she has set her hand, that of "teaching people to be blind and still live full and happy lives."

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

TRUE CHRISTIAN IS MORE THAN A CHURCHGOER

Paul was brought up as a Pharisee in the strict letter of the law. The Pharisees were the party of strict observance. We must not imagine that Jesus thought ill of them or criticized them lightly.

It was precisely because the Pharisees were so devout and earnest that Jesus used them often for illustration, to show that a man might observe all the outward proprieties of religion and yet lack its inward reality and grace.

If we substitute "church member" for "Pharisee" we might obtain clearer insight into what Jesus meant. Mere membership in a church does not make any man what he ought to be. Some who have been punctilious in all outward observances have often been lacking in the elemental Christian virtues.

If we think of a man going up to the throne of God and claiming salvation because of what he was or what he had done, we can then, by contrast, understand what is meant by salvation by faith, which comes to us through the grace of God.

Would a man not wiser be to go to God pleading his sins and shortcomings in penitence and humility, trusting in the love and grace of God?

This is faith, and it is the ultimate ground of a man's salvation after he has done all in his power to make his conduct in harmony with his profession.

SEARCHING QUESTIONS

The affability of the Fowler Commissioners toward those who broadcast before it in support of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, when compared with the asperity they displayed when witnesses protested CBC powers has led some observers to anticipate no reform at all.

True, the Commissioners have been at pains to point out that the searching nature of their questions was really an attempt to defend either party to the dispute.

But the fact remains that those with serious complaints about the government's radio and television policy got quite a raking over, whereas, the small culture groups who endorsed everything and anything the CBC does and ask only that more and more be spent, got a most gracious reception and the most gentle questioning.

Individual private broadcasters, especially, faced a withering cross-fire of questions when they appeared. Every effort seemed to be made to get them to agree to statements that weakened the case of their association, the CARTB.

When the Canadian Federation of Agriculture appeared, on the other hand, only the officials of the Association were heard. No desire was expressed by the Commissioners to question the rank-and-file members.

Indeed, when the official labor case seemed to be weakened by a quoted statement of a Winnipeg labor group which did not agree with the official presentation, the reaction of the Chairman of the Commission seemed anything but eagerness to hear of any defection from labor's official stand.

It was all rather worrisome to those who nourished hopes that this royal commission would result in less political control over what is seen and said over the air waves. Fundamentally complaints about the fear of political control seemed extremely unwelcome. Suggestions that steps be taken to keep political hands from processing news and opinions got short shrift.

Could it be that no one, not even a Royal Commission, wished to face the truth that here in Canada an agency of the government has all the power necessary to suppress opinions unfavorable to the government? The agency may claim it does not use or abuse those powers, but that is not the point. Specific examples have been given — one by Alberta's Minister of Telephones, Mr. Gordon Taylor, who quoted chapter and verse.

Surely it is time the Royal Commissioners asked some searching questions about this political control of opinions.

BETTERING

OF MANY THINGS

By AMBROSE HILLS

"It beats me," the fellow said, "It completely beats me!" He lowered his newspaper and leaned toward me in the Pullman car, waving the headline under my nose. I read it and he pointed with an angry finger at still another headline.

"The government," the fellow said, "will lend millions of dollars to prop up a broadcasting system, or to help a Texas millionaire get a gas pipe line, or for any other darn thing you can think of..."

I put down my whodunit. I've been pretty sore about the broadcasting situation myself. "On broadcasting," I said, "The government's gone hog wild. Dancing girls and sexy night-club singers, paid out of public money..."

He waved that aside. "What burns me is this," he said. "I'm an industrial worker. Acetate... Viscose... That sort of thing. We're in a bad fix, but does the government give a hoot? Not so you could notice."

"They've helped farmers..." I started to say, always ready to do a little arguing.

"Oh, yeah," he said, "ask the farmers! The farmers have had a dribble of handouts... that's all. They've had a dribble and we've had none. We can't even get reform in our crazy custom regulations or tariff set up. You'd think they'd want a lively secondary industry in Canada, making jobs at decent wages, at least as much as — what was it you said?"

"Dancing girls and night-club singers," I answered, glad I'd made my point, at least.

He nodded, a bitter expression on his face. "Some day," he said, "this country will find it needs a textile industry and needs it badly. Then I suppose Mr. Howe or some fellow like that will jump in and say, 'I'll make this thing go!' and he'll take billions out of the public treasury and make a big, powerful textile hero out of himself. Given half fair treatment, we could lead our present industry healthy. But no — millions for dancing girls, but not one cent for clothing!"

"Danezing girls," I said, "don't need much clothing."

A salesman in a chair across the aisle, leaned over to say, "Did you hear about the dancing girl that..."

The political end of our conversation was finished

Forest Fires Now Under Control

The Hon. N. A. Willmore, Minister of Lands and Forests, announced today that all forest fires in the province were now under control. The state of emergency that went into effect in Alberta's forests is being maintained, however. Mopping up and control operations are under way by the forestry workers.

The Hon. Mr. Willmore also announced that the majority of members of the armed forces who had volunteered in the fire fighting program were withdrawing from the Edson area Thursday. "We are most grateful for the splendid help they gave," he said. It is expected a skeleton force will be kept on hand.

The control of fires was gained through the combined efforts of the hundreds of fire fighters and the change in the weather. Heavy rains dampened down and extinguished the majority of the blazes, so effectively that the high winds that accompanied many of the downpours had no opportunity to spread fire further afield.

At the peak of the danger period, there were 155 fires ranging in the province's forests. The most serious fires were those south of Edson, covering three townships; one west of Edson that fire fighters were just holding; and one north of Edson stretching into the Whitecourt area, covering some four townships.

Mr. Willmore made no statement as to general conditions of the forests and gave no indication when the province's wooded areas would be re-opened to travel.

Baseball Players Today 'Softies' Leafs' Manager Says

Today's baseball players are softies compared to the sluggers of former years, Bruno Betzel, manager of Toronto Maple Leafs International League baseball team, claims.

"Players trained long and hard in those days," Betzel says in an article in the current issue of Liberty magazine. "You put on your uniform at 8 a.m. and took it off at 5 p.m. At noon, we had a bottle of milk and a sandwich."

"Now," he complains, "if players work out for three hours, it's called a long day."

Recalling his 46 years in baseball, as player, coach and manager, Betzel's article, "The Most Bizarre Baseball Characters I've Known," reviews some of his tangles with such ball-diamond greats as Dizzy Dean, Ben Tincup and Rogers Hornsby.

While managing the Topeka team in the Western League, Betzel won one game by goading Dizzy Dean into a fight with him, which got Diz barred from the diamond. He did it by heckling the pitcher from his post on the third base coaching line.

"He came off that mound and knocked the bejabbers out of me, ripping the shirt right off my back," Betzel recalls. Later Dean showed up at their hotel "to finish the job", but Betzel talked him out of it and they became firm friends.

Betzel, probably the only man in baseball to manage all three New York major teams — Yankees, Giants and Dodgers — says he regrets only one trick he pulled in 16 years as a player and 24 years as manager. It was the time he pulled the hidden-ball trick on Fred Merkle, in a game between St. Louis and the Giants, in 1915.

Merkle's name became synonymous with "bonehead play" because of an error he had committed seven years previously that cost his team, the New York Giants, the National League pennant. In 1915 he was still trying to live down his famous error.

"I pulled the hidden-ball trick on him," Betzel recalls in the Liberty article. "It opened the wound all over again. I've been sorry ever since, because of the way Merkle took it when he saw he was trapped. The poor devil stood, tears rolling down his cheeks. That got me."

* Altona (Man.) Red River Echo doesn't agree with government's decision not to change exemption on income tax for medical expenses. "Could it be, by any chance, that the bureaucrats are feeding the public with every possible argument, ridiculous or not to kill off all suggestions designed to keep their ranks from swelling."

* Souris (Man.) Plaindealer: "One thing seems sure and that is that Manitoba doesn't have bad weather of her own, it always comes from some other place."

* Fredericton (NB) Free Press wasn't too pleased about materials for milidies dresses flown in from Italy and displayed at local store. The paper thinks the government and its air service which flew the stuff in for Easter was over-enthusiastic. "It was nice of the company to consider the comfort and pleasure of our women — but we still submit that the Italian textiles are no better looking and can scarcely be more serviceable than those which used to be manufactured three miles away at a textile factory that closed two years ago because it could not profitably produce textiles."

* Pincher Creek (Alta.) Echo on abolishment of death penalty: "... one consolation that the culprit may have is that the country must feed him and clothe him for the rest of his life. He won't have to pay for lodging and will have no taxes. In fact he will have everything that socialists are advocating for everyone. His victim may rest in peace, but the society which abolished the death penalty will not be free of the cares and troubles of this disturbed world."

Goodwill Travelcade From Kalispell at Trade Bd. Reception

BLAIRMORE — A Goodwill Travelcade of members of the Kalispell Chamber of Commerce that passed through the Crows Nest Pass Tuesday were — for a time — wondering if the Crow Indians had once again taken over the territory from their white brothers. This short-lived fear was created when a reception party from the Blainville Board of Trade, dressed as Indians, ambushed the cars at the view point near Crow's Nest. On stopping at the viewpoint a "scalping party" headed by Chief Running Water D. Thoniton and his braves Sorefoot L. Chrystal and Chunky J. Kerr took hold of the American visitors and were prepared to "scalp" the visitors when Chief Running Water announced that if the Americans returned the horses stolen by the American Indians, all would be forgiven. The Chief also announced that the stolen women could be retained by the Americans. Agreeing to this suggestion, a peace pipe was brought to the scene and a good smoke enjoyed by Chief Running Water and Claude Walters, mayor of Kalispell.

With words of welcome and introductions over, the travelcade headed for Coleman where the visitors were taken through the town park and then to Coleman Collieries tippie and briquette plant. At this point Dave Young, manager of the Coleman mine led a conducted tour around the mine yard and through the plant explaining the various parts of the tippie and plant.

AT BLAIRMORE

The cars then proceeded east to Blainville where the visitors were taken to Crow's Nest Pass Golf and Country Club. Roy Upton, president, conducted a tour at this point. Proceeding further east to the West Canadian Collieries Greenhill mine, the visitors were taken on a conducted tour of the mine yard and tippie site where Milton Condon, superintendent, explained the operations.

The visitors were then taken to the Turtle Mountain Playgrounds. Refreshments were served and dinner enjoyed.

Following the dinner, F. J. Loe, vice-president of the Blainville Board of Trade, called the Clark Mason of the Kalispell chamber of Commerce, to introduce the visitors, which included Jack Emmett, superintendent of Glacier National Park; Bob Graham, and Mayor Claude Walters. In his remarks Mr. Mason commented on the new piece of highway being built through the Pass, adding that with the twenty mile stretch to be built between Elko and the bountry this entire tour should become a prominent one.

Mr. Loe then called upon Mayor Frank Abousafy of Coleman. Mayor Gray of Blainville, D. Young, manager of the Coleman Collieries, T. VanWyck of the Burms Lumber Company and then William Holyk, president of the Coleman Board of Trade, who in a brief address expressed best wishes to the visitors on the next leg of their journey and extended another invitation for a future visit.

The group then proceeded to the Frank Slide where the visitors were shown the Slide area. The procession then proceeded east to the Burms Lumber Company where Mr. VanWyck took the guests on a tour of the planing mill.

With the agenda for this area completed the visitors were soon on their way to Lethbridge and Fort Macleod. The visitors were presented with souvenir gifts of this area.

During the afternoon the busy quilters took five to enjoy a daily lunch after which Mrs. J. Nash (president) on behalf of the group presented Mrs. Liesemer with a gift. Ft. Macleod Man Heads Alta. Asstd. Chambers Commerce

F. S. (Ted) Kreutzer, bakery and restaurant operator of Fort Macleod, is the eleventh president of the Alberta Associated Chambers of Commerce and Agriculture, a federation of over 120 community organizations. He was elected by acclamation at the Association's 18th annual meeting in Red Deer on May 30. The 112 delegates to the meeting also elected William D. MacDonald, farmer and Shorthorn enthusiast of Granger and Allan D. McTavish, Edmonton chartered accountant and business college principal, as vice-presidents. Forty Alberta communities were represented at the convention.

Featured on the program was the annual luncheon address by William H. Browning, manager of the Montana Chamber of Commerce whose subject was "What the Tourist Means to You." A panel discussion of "Agricultural Credit" included presentations by A. W. Platt, President, Farmers' Union of Alberta, and J. R. McFall, secretary, Alberta Federation of Agriculture. Other panel members were W. D. MacDonald, a member of the Association's Agriculture committee, E. R. Barritt, president, Winwright Chamber of Commerce, and W. T. Hill, Lethbridge livestock dealer and a past president of the association.

Among subjects covered by the 26 resolutions submitted for consideration by the delegates were north-south highways, farm labor, truck load limits, postal service, financial assistance to the coal industry, farm income, movement and storage of grain, alternate routes for communities bypassed by re-located main highways, provision of district agriculturists, financial aid for community parks, swimming pools, business licensing, roads in sparsely settled areas, driver testing, a railway north from the Peace River district, the shortage of well-qualified teachers, freight rates, policing and law enforcement, liquor regulations. A few of the resolutions were tabled or rejected by the delegates because they were out of order or contrary to fact, or because the originating boards and chambers failed to send delegates to support and explain them. Those adopted by the meeting will be discussed in detail with the Government of Alberta at a meeting to be arranged for early fall, or submitted in writing to the Federal Government.

Directors from this area elected at the convention were John Kerr of Frank.

LISTEN TO THE STARS—That's what Harvard's astronomers plan to do with this 60-foot diameter radio-telescope at Agassiz Station, Mass. Largest in the United States, the "ear" is designed to pick up electrical impulses from stars as far as one hundred million light years into space. A light year is equivalent to the distance travelled by a beam of light in one year at the rate of 186,000 miles per second.

The hop, step and jump

(By G. L. A. DAVERNE, President Sask. Branch A.A.U. of C.)

Probably there has been less authentic information written about this event than almost any other, particularly in the United States where this event seems to be taken seriously only in Olympic years. So it is practically impossible to find really good advice on this excellent and difficult feat.

In Saskatchewan you see the hop, step and jump done at every school meet. We find plenty of boys of 14 who can make about 23 feet but by the time they are 18 few of them can go farther than 28 or 29 feet. Perhaps lack of practice is an important reason for this, and practice is extremely hard work, but I believe that a wrong conception of the way to perform the hop, step and jump is behind it all.

If you can get hold of a film showing this event or a film loop about it you can notice several things about how it is done. First it is rhythmic. You can count "one and two and three" as it is done. If you notice a good girl athlete in this event she usually has the rhythm perfectly. Boys on the other hand so often do it jerkily "one-and-two-three." In the film you will see the athlete going through the event almost exactly right. His head is up, his chest

Much shelterbelt planned for this year

More than three and a half million trees will be planted in belts on Manitoba farms this year, states J. E. B. Campbell, Agronomist with the Soils and Crops branch of the Manitoba Department of Agriculture.

Willow, ash, carya, elm and Manitoba maple trees brought in from the Indian Head Nursery Station will plant 422 miles of field shelterbelt this year.

This is about 75 more miles. Mr. Campbell pointed out that, more than last year, and almost four times the number planted in the first year of the project, 1934.

Mr. Campbell said that about half the trees will be planted in the Morden and Carleton Place districts. Other areas receiving a prominent share are Melita, Morris, Pilot Mound, Coburn and Arborg.

Up to this time, Mr. Campbell said, 622 Manitoba farms have been involved in the shelterbelt program set up as a soil conservation measure to prevent wind erosion.

The so-called "hurricane deck" of a ship is actually the upper deck of the vessel.

Marked swing away from wheat

A marked swing away from wheat is indicated for this year unless Manitoba farmers have the warm, drying weather they urgently need in order to begin seeding, according to a report on agricultural conditions made by the Manitoba department of Agriculture.

Except for a few points in the southwest, there has been an excess of surface moisture. Sub-soil moisture appears to be ample in most areas.

Flooding has been confined to the Red River Valley and to land bordering the Assiniboine River. No soil-dusting has been reported.

The district around Melita leads in the acreage planted so far. About half the wheat is in the ground and a start has been made with oats and barley.

While planting is underway in the Killarney-Boussevain section of the province, a start has been made only at a few scattered points in the Red River Valley and Winnipeg district. Morden leads with a reported 5 per cent of wheat planted.

It is noted in the report that rye, alfalfa and hay crops planted in the fall seem to have wintered well.

Other farmers planting sugar beets this year are well equipped to handle the crop. It is estimated that given a few warm, drying days, 50 per cent of the seed could be in the ground a week after planting begins.

Feed shortage. Livestock breeders ran short of feed during the long winter and animals in many districts are reported to have survived the winter in just fair condition. Losses in young pigs and lambs have been average.

The same shortage of feed developing over the last two months has contributed to a decrease in butter production. This is not expected to pick up until pastures improve.

Poultry farming is reported to be flourishing. Eggs received for the period from January through March were three percent higher and meat marketings 32 percent higher than for the same period last year.

There was an increase in the number of chicks hatched and mortality was relatively low. The report indicates that there is a significant increase in the number of chicks going into the broiler trade.

Bees are doing reasonably well in spite of cool weather. Although Queen losses have been slightly above normal, it is expected that the number of colonies of bees will remain about the same as last year.

HAPPY AT HER WORK

"From 7 to 8," Mrs. Vanderbrink instructed the new maid, who arrived at the Vanderbrink's to help at a big dance, "you are to stand at the hall door entrance and call the guests' names as they arrive."

"What jolly fun that will be," enthused the maid. "I know a couple of beauts!"

The landing is again on the heel, there is the same heel down and rock-over on to the toe and then the athlete puts all he can into an explosive broad jump. The style should be exactly the same as the athlete would use in the regular broad jump. (Some even do the "run-in-air" with this jump.)

It may explain the style better if we say that the athlete does a long high hop, a long high step and a long high jump. He stays up in the air for about the same length of time for each. His hop is longest, his step next and the jump shortest. This is reasonable when you consider that the jump is done with the "weak" leg while the hop and step are done with the "strong" leg. In the proper order they might be in length 17 feet, 12 feet and 10 feet.

The hop, step and jump athlete must strengthen his legs. Exercise which will do this are deep knee bends, squat jumping as high as possible, one-legged squats, hopping with or without weights in the hands, hurdling over a string between two sticks. One good method of teaching (or learning) this event is to put down two benches, or set up two low cross-bars so that the athlete hops over the first, steps over the second and then jumps as far as he can.

I hope this information will benefit some of you. If you wish further discussion of this or other events, write me at 3325 Victoria Ave., Regina. 3196

'Happy worker' may not be best producer

A "happy worker," says a Bowling Green, Ohio, State University psychologist, may not turn out as much work as one who complains a great deal.

After a survey of 120 workers in Toledo, Ohio, Dr. Robert M. Guion says that happiness is not the same thing as job satisfaction or high morale. A worker who complains about the way management is doing things may be one of the best producers because he is thoroughly concerned about his company.

Job satisfaction is an entirely different thing, however, Guion says. Job status, how the worker and his community look upon his work—is the most important factor, he believes. Other factors are pay, supervision, kinds of skill used and feelings of belonging to a congenial group, he adds.

Quick acting Canadian soldier saves life of three-year-old boy

SOEST, West Germany. — A quick-thinking Canadian soldier who says he's trained to act in emergencies has been credited with saving the life of a three-year-old German boy who fell into a creek near the headquarters of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade Group here.

It's the second time in the 11 years he has been in the Army that Craftsman David Gauvin, 28, of Cabano, Que., has used his training to save a life.

A member of the 40th Infantry Workshop, Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, Gauvin was eating lunch in the village of Lohne, near Soest, recently when a terrified girl raced into the restaurant screaming that her young playmate had tumbled into a stream across the road.

Gauvin ran to the stream, fished out the unconscious youngster whose name was Reimund Jetten, and applied artificial respiration. He was able to bring the lad around after 15 minutes. A German doctor who examined the child at his home later said that without Gauvin's expert assistance the youngster could not have survived.

Rest intervals aid learning

Practice makes perfect only when the practice is properly organized. And one of the laws of learning that should be kept in mind when the practice is being organized is that athletes will learn more and faster if their practice sessions are broken up by frequent rest intervals.

An athlete who is bored, tired and whose muscles ache will not only fail to learn effectively what he is being taught, but he may well even resist this teaching. The coach should not judge the effectiveness of a practice session by how long and how hard the athlete worked, but rather by how he felt while he worked. If he felt fresh and interested and was not bothered by fatigue and sore muscles when he practiced his skill, he probably learned his lessons well.

Here's a suggested technique. Work the athlete "all-out", demanding full effort and concentration for 10-15 minutes. Then relax and administer such helpful measures as wiping off their faces with a cool towel, administering drinks of water, etc. Many coaches and trainers use an energy jack-up, such as one consisting of tea, orange juice and honey, at such times to boost flagging energy levels, while shotputter Parry O'Brien carries a jar of honey with him in practices to use when he begins to feel draggy.

Five minutes spent in this way every 15 minutes will mean more skill in a shorter time.

Develop a parallel swing

Stan Musial, the great St. Louis Cardinal batter, emphasizes the fact that the hitter's shoulders should be kept level during the swing. According to Musial, many batters have a bad habit of dipping their rear shoulder as they swing. This causes them to scoop at the ball. The bat is moved first down and then up at the ball, causing many pop flies or misses.

To combat this, Musial concentrates on taking his step early and moving his body weight well forward onto the front foot as he takes his swing. He makes sure he swings his bat parallel to the ground. When he's going after a low ball, he bends his knees to get down to it, rather than trying to dip his bat and scoop at it.

Musial feels that young players should practice this parallel swing until it is second nature.

Private Smith's nice curly hair delays discharge

What's left of the curly brown hair of William Arthur Smith is to be discussed in the British House of Commons.

Smith is a 25-year-old former British Army private. A few weeks ago he was only five minutes from his discharge and he went to a welfare officer for the final signature on his discharge papers.

"The welfare officer told me, 'I'm signing nothing for you until you get your hair cut, and short,'" Smith reported.

"He sent me to my platoon sergeant, but when I could not find him I asked regimental police corporal Larry Parks to cut my hair. He borrowed a pair of clippers and sheared the hair off the back and sides of my head right down to the skin.

"I look like a bald man wearing a Davy Crockett cap."

Smith's 23-year-old wife, May, added, "I nearly cried when I saw what they had done to his lovely brown, curly hair. We have been married for four years and his hair was the first thing that attracted me when I met him in 1948."

Bessie Braddock, Labor MP for Liverpool Exchange, said: "I will ask the Secretary of State if he is aware that Private Smith, with an excellent Army record, had been refused a final signature on his demobilization papers until he had his hair cut."

"And," she added, "I will demand an immediate statement and an inquiry."

GERM CARRIER

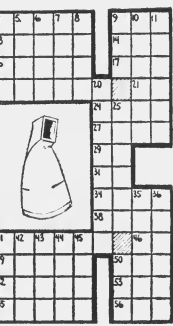

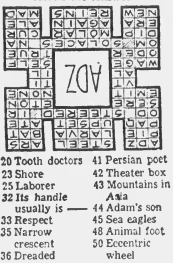

Flies are carriers of disease germs. In late spring and early summer, they come to life and start to explore places where sewage, garbage and other filth are exposed. The germs they pick up on feet and body may be transferred to the nearest home, deposited on uncovered food, tableware or the children's faces. To keep these dangerous pests out of the house, the windows and doors should be well screened, and insecticides and repellents used to deter the insects from the furnishings or person.

Here's the Answer

On The Side: E. V. Durling

The best barbers and beauticians in the world are in Rome. Price of a haircut in Rome is from 20 to 50 cents. For a permanent wave the charge is about $3. Incidentally, the best looking women on the continent are the Italian females. This is especially true of the feminine residents of Milan.

The hankroll of the father of the bride takes a terrific beating in many weddings. However, young papas with a female child under two can get protection against a future financial setback when their daughters marry. A "wedding insurance" policy is available. The father starts payments when the girl is two or less. Then, if she marries at 19 or older, the insurance company will pay all the wedding expenses.

On, off the record

Queries from clients. Q. Is it a fact Voltaire drank 80 cups of coffee a day? What is the record for daily consumption of coffee? A. Have no record of Voltaire as a coffee drinker. Nor any world's record on coffee drinkers. Most coffee consumed in one day by one man with which I am familiar is that Damon Runyon averaged about 40 cups daily. Q. Which game is most played throughout the world, basketball or soccer football? A. It is soccer which is played regularly in over 80 nations. So they say.

New hope for Monte Carlo

Among Europe's glorified gambling joints the most profitable is the Casino at Enghein in suburban Paris. This is followed as to profits by the casinos at Nice, Deauville and Cannes. Monte Carlo hasn't been doing so well recently. This is probably due to the fact that the English, its best customers, are now limited as to the amount of money they can take from their native land to spend on the continent. The Monegasques are said to harbor a strong belief that an influx of financially loaded Americans might get their Casino in the black again. Also that the acquisition of movie star Grace Kelly, as chief hostess of the principality may do much to bring this happy situation about.

Mind over matter

It was none other than Dr. Edith Summerkill who said, "The sensible woman can find life interesting at 40, exciting at 50, enthralling at 60 and stimulating at 70. But only if she cultivates her mind."

And baby makes three

Many Swedish married women wear three rings on the third finger of the left hand. One is an engagement ring, the other a wedding ring and the third a "baby ring." What's a "baby ring"? That is a ring a romantic and loving husband gives his wife on the occasion of the birth of their first baby.

Orchids to Solomon

Among the male inventors who made life easier for females and to whom womankind owe a vote of thanks is Solomon Goldberg. He invented the crinkled hairpin. Before that all hairpins were straight and difficult to keep in the hair. The crinkled hairpin cured that distressing situation. Goldberg is reported to have made a fortune from this simple invention.
